And now a few words from me:
I'm Jackson, a sweet, goofy miniature Dachshund, and I'm ready to find my people! I love off-leash adventures, a good butt scratch, and being cozy with my humans. I also enjoy mingling with dogs my own size, although I'm also fine with the big guys. It's just that I prefer friends who are a little closer to my stature! I should tell you that I have a history of using my teeth to communicate with unfamiliar people when I feel uncomfortable. That being said, my foster mom says that I've made great progress moving past this behaviour, but I'll need a family committed to maintaining clear boundaries, respecting my space, and fulfilling all of my needs as a tiny working dog. Let's meet!

And now a few words from my foster family:
Jackson is a sweet little guy. He is fully off-leash trained with an e-collar, social or neutral with people and dogs, and has a fantastic "off" switch. He's got great food drive and absolutely loves a good game of chase and catch. Jackson's ideal home is an adult-only home with people who understand and appreciate the Dachshund breed. He's a tiny dog with a big working-dog personality, and he needs a family that won't mistake his size for a lack of need for structure, boundaries, and follow-through. His people should be committed to giving him appropriate outlets for his instincts while maintaining clear expectations and respecting his space. Mandatory Meet and Greet with Jackson's Foster Home in the west end of Ottawa, Carlton Place, Almonte, Perth area.
